A REAL DR. JEKYLL.

THE REMARKABLE CAREER AND DOUBLE LIFE OF HENRY E. REESE.

The Defaulting Cashier of the Continental Hotel, Philadelphia, a Veteran Offender—Reese's Statement—Forgery and Embezzlement—A Good Church Member.

By Telegraph to the POST-DISPATCH.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., February 10.—As was stated in the morning papers yesterday Henry E. Reese, defaulting cashier of the Continental Hotel, was a veteran offender, having planned Chas. Magarage & Co. of $45,000, much of which he is said to have contributed to church work. Then, as now, however, he stole for a woman not his wife. Reese spent a most disastrous day in Moymanseng Prison. Physically he is a wreck, and there is no doubt that he is fast going to pieces. He spent much of the day in pacing his cell and reading a Bible. To the POST-DISPATCH correspondent he said: "I don't care what you say about me or my wife, and the injury I did Mr. Kingsley. It's not true that I took the Kurts people to move. I did send word to Jennie Kurts that I was under arrest. If I had known she would have gone away I would have prevented it. A paper says I went to her home in a cab and came out of it drunk. That is not so; I didn't drink liquor. The hearing was a surprise to me. I did not expect I would have to go to prison, as I had offered restitution and it had been accepted."

All this was said in a disconnected way. The correspondents showed Reese an extract from an evening paper giving an account of his past career. He高地 twice while reading it, and at the close exclaimed: "I expected that! Oh, I can't talk any more. I am lost forever. I've been a fool."

In reference to Reese's mode of living during the time he held the position of cashier at Magarage's, his habits were such as not to arouse a suspicion of anything wrong.

He appeared to have a mania for carriages, however, and it is said invariably rode home in one with either his wife or himself. Reese was a notorious gambler, and was known to have won a large sum in a single night. He was a heavy drinker, and it is said that he to his knowledge was never sober. A diamond part of the tort received from him a check for a large amount bearing the signature of J. Magarage & Co. He was a heavy spender, and it is said that he knew why he lost his position with Magarage. They then lived together in Columbia avenue in handsome style.

THE PAST. Three years after his first confession and on the failure of Mr. Magarage, Reese engaged in the manufacture of paper near Valley Forge with Clington, who was a mysterious murderer. He was accused of having murdered David Clegg was at one time associated with Reese, under the firm name of Clegg, Clington & Reese, but withdrew from the partnership and disappeared. He was never heard of again.

Mr. Clegg was at one time associated with Reese, under the firm name of Clegg, Clington & Reese, but withdrew from the partnership and disappeared. He was never heard of again.

Mr. Clegg withdrew from the partnership and disappeared. He was never heard of again.

When the reporter called at the residence of the "Marquis," some hours later he was told that the "Marquis" had been arrested, and the time the well-known accents of De Lachand were heard from the bowels of the basement.

"It is a reporter, I am at 12th street."

"I am afraid," said the young lady, "that the up-keepers will do this to us."

"Mrs. Reese seems to dread you. He has retired to the cellar and can't be induced to come out. He was furious this morning about the articles in the papers."

It was learned that the "Marquis" was somewhat noted for his eccentricities. He was a man of great wealth, but as the firm did not prosecute or discharge him, and as they were both members of the same church, Mr. Magarage never gave him any trouble.

Jennie Kurts, the woman to whom Reese charges his downfall, is believed to be in Baltimore. She is a widow, and came from New York. Mrs. Kurts has separated from her husband. She had two daughters, Jennie and Jessie, and three sons, and a number of nieces and nephews. She is now living only Jenny behind. The deserted girl, it is claimed, then entered a disreputable house in the city, and was soon discovered by her husband and returned to Philadelphia. Jennie then joined her mother. She was 28 years of age, could neither read nor write, and possessed no physical charms, but Reese met her on the street and became infatuated with her, finally having her separated from her husband.

Mr. Fauntleroy, the unfortunate wife of down, the last of his husband's former misdeeds, but his correct habits and religious enthusiasm had led her to believe that he was an honest man.

Mr. Fauntleroy, who is a member of the Eastern Supremists, has been a member of the Eastern Supremists, he says, review a case very carefully, and their decision is generally final.

Mr. Fauntleroy has received a letter from Mr. Martin, who says there is nothing of importance in the communication being of a purely private character.

ALL THE PROPERTY FOR SALE BY REAL ESTATE AGENTS WILL BE FOUND IN EVERY ISSUE OF THE SUNDAY POST-DISPATCH.

The Stage-Struck "Marquis" De Lachand Hiding From the Reporters.

By Telegraph to the POST-DISPATCH.

NEW YORK, February 10.—The young "Marquis" De Lachand, whose advertisement and frantic search for Miss Clara Head, the variety actress, and whose desire to go on the stage were told in yesterday's papers, was very indignant yesterday at the publication his case had achieved. He was not mere so, however, than Miss Clara Head, for whom he advertised. Miss Head, who is a young burlesque actress, said she had not seen him since he had left, visited her lawyers Messrs. Murray & Martin of No. 11 Pine street, yesterday morning and desired them to come to her office to prove that she had never agreed to act for him. Miss Head claimed that she had never laid eyes on the alleged nobleman, and that she had been brought through his statement. She insisted that the "Marquis" was to be sent to La Loge, and that he was back with the young gentleman. A messenger boy rushed to La Loge, and when he was back with the young gentleman.

He was asked if he had seen the young man.

Mrs. E. W. Golson Entertains Her Friends—The Guests and Toilets—Society Notes, Personal and Chat.

Mr. Robert W. Golson of 857 Washington Avenue gave a dinner yesterday afternoon at which there were some 800 ladies in attendance.

The floral decorations were very tasteful, groups of palms and ferns filling the odd corners and banking fireplaces, while balls of roses were suspended from the doorways and mantelpieces.

Mr. Golson was a very handsome gown of black velvet, pointed bodice and full skirt.

It is hoped that the House of Representatives will not lose its temper at the loss of its stock-tickers.

The gubernatorial aspirants who are after GOV. MOREHOUSE's scalp will soon find out that their contract is a big one.

The Senate has deferred further consideration of the British extradition treaty till next December. Tally one for RUDDEBERGER.

DR. MCGLYNN is now proceeding to demolish HENRY GEORGE. While the doctor is running amuck he is liable to collide with anybody.

WHILE TAX-PAYERS walk or indulge in cheap cab or street-car transportation, the Assemblyman rides in carriages at the tax-payers' expense.

UNTIL the Blair bill is disposed of, RIDDEBERGER is a sort of necessity in the Senate. The burden of enmity should not fall upon that dignified body.

THE attempt of various Republican Senators to perform the operation of trachetomy on RIDDEBERGER's mouth must now be pronounced a mournful failure.

THE confidence with which DR. MCGLYNN talks about running an Anti-Poverty candidate for President indicates that somebody has promised to pay the freight.

THE anti-Blaireans are beginning their flings at Mr. BLAINE, but the man of magnetism is not angry with them. He loves them for the crows they have eaten.

JOHN SHERMAN has just addressed the Home Market Club of Boston. The Senator is firing himself off at too short intervals; he should permit himself to cool between explosions.

SENATOR SHERMAN in his Boston speech was very severe on the President's message, but he forgot to assail the national Republican platforms which promised the tariff reform which the message recommends.

THE wires with which Wall street was working its puppets in Congress have been excluded from the Capitol building by order of Speaker CARLISLE. Now, if he could only identify and expel all the Wall street agents employed there, as the usurers were driven out of the Temple, it would be a good thing for the country. But it would vacate a great many seats in both houses.

SENATOR SHERMAN takes MR. LOWELL to task for saying that Mr. CLEVELAND is the best President we have had since LINCOLN. It should be remembered, however, that MR. SHERMAN is a very poor judge of the comparative merits of men. At one time he looked upon J. MADISON WELLS, JIM ANDERSON, ELIZA PINKSTON and the Louisiana aristocrats as the leading statesmen in the land, and the most splendid embellishments of American society.

THE meeting of the Municipal Assembly to-night will again be protracted by a dead-lock between the two houses, and the livery stable members will have another opportunity to vote themselves a ride home at the city's expense in their own turnouts. By conniving at this little steal other members in different lines of business will find the courtesy duly reciprocated when their turns come. A whack at a city treasury is a gretching in business in full times.

THE Government's Pacific Railroad directors have united in a report in which they take issue with Gov. PATTERSON, make the best plea they can for further concessions to the pirates of our overland commerce, and for the twentieth time show that the only service Government directors can render in connection with Pacific railroads is that of the wings with which vampires lull to sleep the victims of their blood-sucking operations. Not a single note of warning or a single hint of what was really going on has ever yet emanated from the Government directors while all this fabric of fraud and robbery was reaching its present dimensions of over $200,000,000.

METROPOLITAN PRESS.

What the Editors of the New York Journals Are Saying This Morning.

By Telegraph to the Post-DISPATCH.

New York, February 10.—The WORLD says:

"The Republican Senators and newspapers evade discussion of the 'condition' that called forth the President's message and direct their attention to a 'theory' that is wholly irrelevant. The main question is the surplus. The treasury balance is over $300,000,000. The Government is collecting $500,000 a day, $15,000 a month and $180,000 a year in excess of its needs. Shall the surplus be stopped or spent? If stopped, how? This is the question and this is the issue. Why, the Republicans most insist on abstaining 'free silver'?"

They know and the country knows that a tariff 20 per cent less than the present was maximum would be adequate for both protection and revenue. Their last President and their last two Secretaries of the Treasury urged a reduction. Their own tariff commission recommended it, and their own Congress passed it. By dodging the issue the Republicans confess the weakness of their case. The Democrats have forced the limit.

Mr. Huntington was asked if he made his proposition individually or from the Central Pacific.

"Well," replied Mr. Huntington, "I have no doubt that whatever I here propose would be a money-making arrangement to the railroads and a money-making arrangement to the Central Pacific Company. I have been Vice-President ever since its organization."

Mr. Huntington frankly admitted that he was of large means, but because of our integrity. He had put twelve hours a day to this and none of the company's employees had worked harder. Men who went west to work for the Central Pacific did not have cost much. But he had cost a great deal of work.

Mr. Huntington continued at some length and went over the same ground he did before the Pacific Railroad investigation Committee in New York some months ago. In conclusion he made an application for an adequate appropriation of the debt of the Central Pacific on the basis of 250 semi-annual payments—an extension of two years, he said—with interest at 2 per cent.

Mr. Huntington was asked if he made his proposal to the Central Pacific.

"I prefer to pay the Government the amount due," he said.

McNichols Once More.

THE ONLY MAN AT HAND.

Saving a penny and wasting a pound.

It's the best policy, so I have found.

And made herself miserable during her day.

The stove had an appetizing big as a giant.

But she was too fat to eat it.

Then slammed the lids down, rattled the shovels, and said we had better go live on bread.

"What do you do now? Ain't you funny?

"To blame me for not baking? Cook stoves cost money."

"Oh, don't worry. Well, just let me tell you right flat

Ishan't try to cook any more upon that.

You can't imagine what a queen

she is when she has gotten a new gasoline.

Ob, don't sit and stare at me, looking so weak,

like a dead fish, and pay by the week."

Jerusalem! That settles it!

There is no question—

It's the biggest and best $5

worth you have ever seen in Trousers. There's no letup to new styles. They're coming in almost daily. It's now a matter of how many thousands we'll sell.

What if we don't make much on one pair?

It's plain enough they're booming trade for us.

We want to touch 200

pairs a day!

than before.

What'll You Lose

If you don't go to Wanamaker's?

If you miss seeing their styles?

If they ask $5 for stylish Trousers?

If you pay fancy prices for no better?

If you find everybody else bought Wanamaker's?

That your friend in the bank bought Wanamaker's?

That your closest chum down town bought Wanamaker's?

That the toniest men you know bought Wanamaker's?

That up on the hill all the stylish men bought Wanamaker's?

That all the club swells and Board of Trade men bought Wanamaker's?

That, after all, to keep up with the crowd, you'll have to come to Wanamaker's?

There is no question—it's the biggest and best $5 worth you have ever seen in Trousers. There's no let-up to new styles. They're coming in almost daily. It's now a matter of how many thousands we'll sell.

The Fate of the Charter Amendments Will Be Decided on the 28th Inst.

An Election of Great Importance to the City's Welfare.

The Post-Dispatch Presents the Propositions to Its Readers To-Day.

An Election at Which the Sprinkling Question Will Be Forever Settled.

Full Explanation of the Reasons for Submitting the Proposed Amendments to a Vote of the People and the Arguments Advanced Showing the Necessity of Passing the Amendment Providing for Paying for Street Sprinkling by the Levy of a Special Tax—A History of the Control of the Street-Sprinkling Contractors

—The Tax Problem in the Extended City Limits—Comptroller Campbell Says the Present Law Favors the Rich and Oppresses the Poor—A New Limit View of the Situation—The Members of the Board of Public Improvements Declare in Favor of the Adoption of Both of the Amendments—Assessor O'Brien's Statement of the Operation of the Present Tax Law—A Presentation of the Problem That Every Good Citizen Should Study.

A Brief Review of the History of Street Sprinkling Will Explain the Dangers of the Crises which the City is now passing through.

Before the construction of the streets with granite, Telford, Nicholson and other block and solid paving materials, the limestone blocks were used, and the contractors who worked on them were paid by the yard.

Twenty-five years ago the city was devoted to the work of street-sprinkling.

It will be seen that the city is now run on a narrow gauge, and the cost of maintaining the streets is increased.

The expenses of such a new and extensive undertaking as a general street sprinkling is in former years, when the city was sprinkled in patches.

Now stands prominently forth that unless sprinkling amendment comes the city will go back into hands of contractors, and instead of having the streets spruced up, the city will be left in the same condition as when the ordinance was passed.
